Food Security and Nutrition in the context of the 2030 Agenda:
Science and Knowledge for Action

International Colloquium
27 September 2016
University of Hohenheim

Rapporteur's Report

Stefanie Lemke, Coventry University

With Ann Waters-Bayer and Nathanaël Pingault

Five key issues to be tackled

1. Food security & nutrition in conflict areas (migration; strengthen women's rights, integrate men)
2. In research, integrate: a) diverse actors, knowledge systems, data (metrics, models, natural/social sciences, basic/applied research); b) transdisciplinary/participatory approaches for balanced agenda & dialogue; c) diverse funding structures; long-term planning!
3. How can we make agriculture (large & small) more ecologically sound, adaptive and resilient? (link producers – consumers; strengthen producers' access to markets, resources, services – econ. viability)
4. Transform food systems: a) role of social movements to challenge concentration of power; b) role of governance/institutions for translation of policies at national/sub-national level
5. Shift consumption patterns towards sustainable diets: a) address all forms of malnutrition (incl. overnutrition); b) link agriculture – nutrition; c) awareness, education; d) cultural aspects
